Our New House

The phone rings.

"Hello!"

"Hello, Teresa! It's Clare. How are you doing?"

"Fine, thanks! How are you? Have you finished with the move?"

"No, I'm still opening boxes and tidying things up. It's hard work!"

"Do you like your new house?"

"Sure. It's bigger and more comfortable. We all have our own room on the first floor. Mine has an en-suite bathroom. There's another bathroom with a Jacuzzi on the same floor."

"What about the ground floor?"

"There's a living room with a big fireplace and a lovely mantelpiece. There's a glass door as well. We can see the garden through it."

"That's great!"

"There's a kitchen next to the living room and a garage."

"Wow! You have a garage."

"Yes, there is enough room for two cars."

"Is the kitchen big?"

"Quite. It has a dining room and a service room that I've refurbished and refurnished as a study. Ah! And there is a restroom and a wardrobe in the master bedroom."

"Ah! For your guests! Do you have a swimming pool in the garden?"

"Yes, so we can sunbathe and swim in summer. You can come whenever you want."

"Great! Do you want a hand with the move?"

"No, thanks. If I need some help, I'll let you know. I'll call you on the weekend."

"Ok. Send my regards to your husband."

"Thanks. Bye"

"Bye."
